▶ 2.5.1 - Mechanism of internal assessment is transparent and robust in terms of frequency and mode

The concerned faculty members of the relevant departments conduct internal evaluations in accordance with directives from the University as per the academic calendar.

Admissions are made only based on merit. After being admitted to the course, students are continually assessed at the college and university levels using a variety of assessment techniques. Ongoing review is done through group discussions, assignments, and unit tests. Unit exams are administered on a regular basis in compliance with the timetable specified in the academic calendar. Students are given topics by their teachers who would be ready for their PowerPoint presentation.

Marks are assigned based on recurring internal assessments. Time is allotted to each subject at the beginning of the academic year, and project reports and internal tests are planned.

Department-specific records of each of these actions are kept up to date. The college handles exam-related matters in an open and well-structured way. Students can address examination-related issues with teachers, and the principal, depending on the requirements and jurisdiction of the grievance. Students receive graded response scripts from the teacher, who also addresses any queries or issues they may have. Marks are posted after Valuation on dates set by faculty members in the academic calendar.
